COUNTING HOUSE ALMANAC.—In our paper, yesterday, the lists of Directors, in the Branch and the Bank of Pittsburgh were very defective.—Messrs. Towne, Lightner, and Thompson are not directors in the Branch, and Messrs. Little, Darlington, and Way are.—In the Pittsburgh Bank, Robert Stewart having left the city, Dr. Wm. A. Simpson was, at the last election, chosen in his stead

☞The Committee of the House of Representatives, of this State, consisting of Messrs. M'Cleane, Fornance, Holcomb, White, and Donnell, to examine the Western Penitentiary, arrived here a few days ago, and are now engaged in examining the progress of the work, and inspecting the general condition of the prison.

THE DEPOSITS AND THE TREASURY.—We extract two articles, to day, which we think are well calculated to excite and alarm the most apathetic of our readers.—Some of our friends honestly entertain fears of the United States Bank; but let them examine the two articles taken from the agreement with the Bank in Virginia, and then ask themselves, can any conceivable danger from the United States Bank equal that which may arise from this arrangement with the Virginia Bank, which is, no doubt, a mere copy of the arrangement with all the other pet banks.

As to the Treasury drafts on the United States Bank, we are truly astonished at the hardihood of the officers at Washington. They professed to believe that the deposits were not safe in the United States Bank and removed them to certain pet banks which they pretend to believe were safe—but at the very same moment they show that they really have no confidence in those banks, by lending them money to sustain their credit. They lend this money without interest, at the very moment and the very time that another branch of the government (the post office department) is compelled to pay some of the same banks interest for the use of money.

THE LATE LEGISLATIVE CAUCUS.—We, this morning, received a long letter, from a very intelligent and shrewd correspondent, at Harrisburgh, from which we take the following extract, which accounts, as we think, satisfactorily, for the unanimity of the recent caucus.

"A large majority of the Legislature are opposed to Van Buren, the heir apparent; but the object is to keep the State Government in their hands; and, to do this, it is necessary that the party should not divide about the Presidency.—This accounts for their unanimity in the late Democratic Convention.—The election for Governor, in Pennsylvania, comes one year before the election of President."

We have no doubt that this fully explains the whole matter, and dissipates all the mystery which seemed to surround this subject. Only a few days before this Convention was held, the members of this same Legislature elected Samuel M'Kean, the decided and unrelenting opponent of Van Buren to the Senate.—But this is not all—they elected him, principally, because he had happened to have foresight enough to perceive that Pennsylvania was invincibly hostile to Martin Van Buren, and courage enough to proclaim that he knew the Magician well, and knew him to be a designing, unprincipled, and dangerous man.—This was a master stroke of policy, on the part of Samuel M'Kean. and this secured his election. Had he adopted a non committal policy—had he permitted his hostility to Mr. Van Buren to be concealed from the Legislature, he would never have been elected.

To preserve, however, something like harmony in the caucus, and to prevent an open out breaking between the different fragments of the party, many of the members of the Legislature agreed to pass resolutions in favor of a National Convention; but, at the very moment that the caucus passed this resolution, Gen. M'Kean writes a letter, denouncing a National Convention, and its special object—the nomination of Martin Van Buren.

"There is many a slip between the cup and the lip," and the Harrisburg Caucus fully understand this. Between this time and the meeting of the National Convention, it will either be found that that Convention will not nominate Van Buren, or some pretext will be found for not attending it.

THE LATE MILITARY OPERATIONS IN PORTUGAL.

FROM THE LONDON MORNING POST.

(Copied into the London Courier, of the 12th Nov.

Another Lisbon and Oporto mail has arrived, bringing advices from the former place to the 2d, and from the latter to the 3d inst., both inclusive. Such communications as have reached us by this conveyance will be found in another part of our paper, under the usual head. The accounts recorded in them are full and explanatory. It does not, however, seem that any movement had taken place in front of Santarem. The Pedroites have there all their disposable force; but so far they have attempted nothing.

A report from the Place of Cartano, dated the 26th, ultimo, [October] and published in the Chronica, says that Don Pedro went to the valley, half a league from Santarem, where he observed the positions of the enemy, and made all the arrangements which he judged necessary. The same paper, however, acknowledged "that it was prudent not to attack Santarem," hoping, nevertheless that the garrison would soon be starved out. And was this to be done by assailants who had not ventured nearer than within half a league of their enemy's position?

It now turns out that the corn mills, mentioned so exultingly by an evening contemporary, are still in the hands of the Royalists, and that even to take them it will require a great effort on the part of their opponents. It is also confessed that Coimbria has not declared for the invaders, which proves the correctness of our yesterday's remarks. A flying party of the neighboring woodsmen, accompanied by a few soldiers, had, however, surprized the open town of Leiria, and proclaimed Donna Maria, there being no troops to oppose them. Care was taken immediately to send off a messenger, with this news, to Lisbon, and the most was made of it. A few hours after the Leirians discovered what had happened in their town, they assembled, drove out their oppressors, and restored the ancient order of things. The affair cost a few lives; but the result the Lisbon Government were wise enough to conceal.

In one of our letters, the capture of Alcaser do Sal, by the Pedroites, is also minutely described; and, from this place, according to the last accounts, they had, in like manner, been dislodged. However strong they may be in the sea ports, it is nevertheless evident that they cannot hold an inland town longer than the Royalists choose.

From the letters before us, it is deducible that there has been more fighting up the Tagus than the Pedroites have felt disposed to acknowledge. The plan of supporting their land operations by armed boats, seems to have been entirely frustrated by the Royalists, from whom no direct accounts are now received. That they are doing well, and actively employed, may be easily gleaned, even from the avowals of their enemies. The latter now know the value of the position of Santarem, as well as the use which its occupants intend to make of it. Some of our contemporaries also begin to find out that we were correct in stating, as we did a fortnight ago, that it was intended to leave there a garrison of only 5,000 men. The remainder of the Royalist army is in the field, with the King at its head, and ready to operate as circumstances may require.

If we may judge from the accounts which the Pedroites themselves furnish, it is not their intention, or, in other words, they are not in a situation to attempt to take Santarem by assault; and, as to their sitting down before it, on the swamp by which that interesting position is surrounded, we venture to assert that no military man will deem it feasible, even if Don Pedro's troops were more numerous and much more efficient than they are.—They will find it difficult to put down the insubordination already prevailing in their camp; and, for this reason, we think that Don Pedro has for once at least acted with skill and foresight in tracing lines of defence at Alhandra, as stated by one of our correspondents.

We have already observed that the Royalists are every where arming guerillas, and our Lisbon letter, of the 2d of November, developes one of their new plans. Whilst Don Pedro is sending to London for horses, and obtaining, as one of our correspondents justly remarks, all the cast off cart and hackney coach cattle his agents are pleased to furnish, Don Miguel is collecting the numerous herds of breeding mares and road horses abounding on his own and the noblemen's farms of the Riba Tejo. They are mounted by herdsmen, armed with a long lance, more formidable than that of the Russian Cossacks, or the Laco-men of Buenos Ayres. Our correspondent, of the 2d of November, describes the manner in which these men are organized and armed, as well as the purposes to which they are to be devoted; but he does not mention the number that may probably be raised. An intelligent native, however, assures us that the King can easily form 2,000 Ribatijo Cossacks, and these, added to the 4,000 cavalry already stationed between Santarem and Abrantes, will give the Royalists a great superiority. To their cost the invaders will soon find that, although the natives are not for the present prepared or disposed to dispute the possession of their sea ports, they are resolved to defend all the inland country.

We have before described the precarious situation of Oporto; Don Pedro nevertheless peremptorily ordered out the garrison to support his own movements, and General Stubbs had no alternative but to obey. The experiment was accordingly made. A maritime expedition sailed to the southward of the Mondego, whilst a strong column of infantry took the Coimbra road. The latter advanced about three leagues, but having been surprized by a strong division of Royalists posted near Ovar, they were driven back to Villa Nova, some of the Chasseurs having even thrown away their arms.

Late from Port au Prince.—In a short interview with Capt. Rathbone, of the Angelina, from Port au Prince, (says the New Orleans Bulletin of the 11th inst.) we learn that the French Commissioner had made a formal requisition upon President Boyer for the indemnity which had been stipulated, but no answer had been returned at the time of the A's. sailing. He also informs us that the coffee crops had never promised so abundant a harvest, but owing to the wet weather, planters had not commenced gathering. The market therefore was entirely bare of this article. Every thing was quiet upon the island, and there appeared to be no apprehension from the French government in regard to the claims.

The New Orleans Argus, of the same date, says that the French Envoy had proposed that St. Jermy should be delivered over to the French—but the President Boyer refused to comply. The brig Cuirassier set sail on the 18th ult., on her return to France, having on board the Consul General.

From the Correspondent of the National Intelligencer.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 26, 1833.

We have this evening had, in our city, one of the largest public meetings, upon the deposit question, which has ever been held in the capital of the Old Dominion. The Hall of the House of Delegates was crowded to overflowing. Among the individuals there, I perceived one or two members of Congress from the North, now on a visit to this city, and I felt proud that that their visit was so timed as to witness this thrilling exhibition of the genius and spirit of the South. The meeting was called to order at 5 o'clock, and CHAPMAN JOHNSON, Esq., chosen to preside over it. The name of Johnson is itself a tower of strength to any cause, in Virginia, with which he is connected. In purity and disinterestedness of public character—in strength and vigor of intellect, he is surpassed by no man, and no one could occupy a more enviable and commanding position in public confidence. When taking the chair, he made a short address, but directly to the point.—He presented the issue now made up between the President and the People, as one of liberty and despotism; and expressed his hope that the People would have the spirit to assert, and the firmness to maintain their rights upon this great and trying occasion.

Benjamin W. Leigh then rose, and submitted a series of resolutions, censuring the removal of the deposits, as a plain, gross, and palpable violation of the public faith, and of the Laws and Constitution of the country—presenting of themselves a condensed and beautiful argument on the subject. He sustained his resolutions in a speech of transcendant power and ability, which occupied in its delivery nearly two hours. It has often been my good fortune to have listened to the eloquence of this gifted and extraordinary man; but upon no former occasion have I ever known him so mighty and overpowering in his argument, so thrilling and exciting in his eloquence. It was, indeed, a proud day for Virginia—to hear her favorite and most gifted son—he upon whose shoulders the mantles of Henry and Randolph have fallen—thus lay bare the disguises under which despotism was seeking to entrench itself, and hurling down the idolatrous images which, for nearly eight years, have disgraced her political worship.

The results of this night will be felt throughout Virginia and the South. The high ground which Mr. Leigh occupies in public confidence, the rapturous applauses which followed nearly every sentence of his long and eloquent harangue, the perfect and entire unanimity with which the resolutions were adopted, have struck a blow at the influence of the Kitchen Cabinet, from which it cannot recover in Virginia.

Many able, patriotic, and distinguished sons of the Old Dominion were present, prepared to have joined in the discussion. But the eloquence of Leigh was enough. It filled every heart, convinced every head, satisfied every desire. Look at the resolutions—[they have not reached us]—read them, and then ask if there can be any doubt of the political course of the Old Dominion, when, in so large and numerous a meeting, there was not one dissenting voice to them?

The speech of Mr. Leigh should be published and circulated throughout Virginia. It would be impossible for any man, not wilfully blind and deaf, to resist its force. I have read every speech, report, and document, upon the Bank, for the last four years, and I may truly say, that I have not before heard so complete and powerful a vindication of the Bank against the charges of misconduct, and never heard so glowing and appalling an illustration of the dangers which threaten the institutions of the country from the rapid strides which the Executive is making to despotic power.

Where were the ex-Attorney General, and the rest, when the citadel of their strength was thus stormed and leveled with the ground? Not one dared to show himself at the meeting, or to lift his voice in defence of his "good master."

I cannot forbear to add that, Mr. L., in the course of his speech, paid a compliment to the National Intelligencer, which might well console you amidst the abuse of a thousand hireling presses. Among other things, he said he had known the paper since 1800—he knew it well—and, if there was a public journal in the nation, incapable of being corrupted, it was the Intelligencer.

PROVIDENCE, Dec. 19.

Alarming Power.—In the articles of agreement between the Secretary of the U. S. Treasury and the Bank of Virginia, containing the conditions upon which the latter has received the deposits of public money, withdrawn from the U. S. Bank, we find the two following, viz:

"6th. If the Secretary of the Treasury shall think proper to employ an agent or agents to examine and report upon the accounts and condition of the Banks, in the service of the Government, or any of them, the said Bank agrees to pay an equitable proportion of his or their expenses, and compensation, according to such appointment as may be made by the said Secretary.

8th. It is agreed that the Secretary of the Treasury may discharge the said Bank from the service of the Government whenever, in his opinion, the public interest may require it."

It will be seen by the 6th article above, that the Secretary of the Treasury has the power of appointing such, and any number of "Agents" that he pleases, to examine into the condition of the whole Pet Banks throughout the country, and that each one of these Banks "agrees to pay an equitable proportion of their expenses and compensation," which compensation is to be fixed by the Secretary.

Under this broad and sweeping power, what prevents the Secretary of the Treasury from appointing a whole army of Government Agents or Bank Commissioners, with full and fat salaries, and to be stationed permanently in every State in the Union, to control all elections through the tremendous engine of all the moneyed operations of the people! It is not apparent that the attempt is to be thus made to diffuse the machinery which exists in the State of New York, over the whole country? The finger of Martin Van Buren is in this business. The chains are forging for the people, and it seems that the people are to be compelled to pay for enslaving themselves. Let this broad spreading and wide operating political machinery, which is preparing, and by which it is intended to control all the capital of the country for political purposes, be once completed, and farewell to the liberties of the American people.

That this army of Government Commissioners would be able to control all these Treasury Banks, we have only to consider the effect of the 8th article, above copied. By that article, the Banks are to be kept in subjection and subservient to these Commissioners upon pain of dismissal. Here is consolidation with a vengeance. This dangerous movement, calculated to confer more alarming powers upon a Secretary of the Treasury, than all the now dangerous patronage of the Government, must be exposed, and the wily scheme of ambitious and corrupt men broken up, or there is an end of this Republican Government.

We depend upon the great champions of Republican liberty in the U. S. Congress, and upon the friends of freedom every where in the country, to overthrow this political scheme, which is fraught with the most serious and appalling consequences to American liberty, and to those Republican principles which have descended to us from our patriot fathers, and which it is our duty to protect and defend.

The Contingent Checks.—Until Mr. Clay cited, in his speech on Thursday, the correspondence between the Cashier of the Bank of the United States, and the Treasurer of the United States, we were not aware of its being in existence. We have since seen it, however, and wish we had room to give it entire to our readers, as a curious illustration of the progress of error, how one false step leads on to another. Mr. Campbell, every body knows, is an amiable and respectable gentleman; but he has become entangled, in his official character, in a maze of difficulties, which he could probably only have avoided by resigning his office. In this correspondence, replying to a letter from Mr. Cashier Jaudon, complaining very justly of the half million draft upon the Bank U. S., in favor of the pet bank at Philadelphia, being drawn without notice, Mr. Treasurer Campbell says, with great naivete, "The drafts in question were not of "the usual kind, and did not properly belong to "the usual weekly statement." To which he adds, "They were issued by direction of the Secretary "of the Treasury, to be used in the event of certain "contingencies, upon failure of which they were "to be returned to the Treasury and cancelled." After this official account of the matter, will any one deny that this was a mere lending of the public money to the enormous amount of these checks? By what authority in the laws this power of lending the public money without interest has been exercised by the Secretary of the Treasury, remains to be accounted for by him to Congress, to whom he has not condescended as yet to lisp a syllable about it. The sum of these drafts, issued before the 8th day of November, is acknowledged, in the Treasurer's letter of that date, to be Two Millions Three Hundred Thousand Dollars! The money thus unceremoniously disposed of, be it always remembered, was used for no legitimate purpose; but to bolster up certain Banks, into which the Treasury has ordered the rest of the public money to be deposited as fast as it is collected. This was the grand fiscal expedient of the Administration, boasted of by Mr. Kendall, in his letters to New York, as the means by which the Bank of the United States was to be "brought upon its knees!" The Representatives of the People will not be able to face their constituents, when they return home, should they tamely suffer their lawful authority over the public moneys thus to be wrested from them by the Executive officers.

What is most monstrous in this bank business is, that whilst one branch of the Government is lending money without interest (and without law) to favorite Banks, another branch has been borrowing some of that same money, and paying interest upon it, also without authority in law. Whilst the Financial Secretary was financiering for the benefit of political friends in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York, we marvel that it did not occur to him to lend one of those same half million checks to the Post Office Establishment. Such a loan would have been as lawful at least as those to the Pet Banks—was really wanted for the public service—and would, besides, have saved interest.

The whole amount of these contingent checks, it appears from the Treasurer's admission, was as follows:

In favor of (N. Y.) Manhattan Bank	$500,000
In favor of (N. Y.) Bank of America	500,000
In favor of (N. Y.) Mechanics' Bank	500,000
In favor of (Pa.) Girard Bank	500,000
Union Bank of Maryland	300,000

Little did we think, when we suggested, as an appropriate reward for the prompt and willing service rendered by the President of the Union Bank of Maryland, that the Secretary of the Treasury should send for the use of that Bank one of his convenient checks on the public money, that that Bank had received the douceur in advance of the service, in the shape of only three hundred thousand dollars of the public money. Such now officially appears to have been the fact.

Though we have not room, as we have said before, for the entire correspondence, we cannot resist the temptation to show how the mere statement of this great financial operation of the K. C. covers it with ridicule, as in the following extract:

Extract from Mr. Jaudon's letter to the Treasurer, dated December 9th.

"The Transfer Draft, like the Warrant, is endorsed in blank, just as an ordinary check—it is, in point of fact, neither more or less than a warrant at sight. The very name of a Contingent Draft is a financial novelty—and, so far as is intelligible in this case, it describes an order for two millions three hundred thousand dollars upon the Bank, not merely without notice of its existence—but with the strongest presumption against its existence, and dependent for its immediate presentation 'on contingencies' which the Bank did not know, and the Treasury could not control."

A Voice from Virginia.—The following notice of a late Public Meeting at Richmond, is copied from the Richmond Whig, of Friday last:

POSTSCRIPT.—We stop the press to announce the assemblage, on yesterday evening, of the most numerous meeting of the People of Richmond ever known, called to express popular feeling on the removal of the deposits. Chapman Johnston, Esq., was called to the Chair, when Mr. Benjamin Watkins Leigh submitted a string of resolutions, condemning, unqualifiedly, the Executive conduct in relation to the deposits, as illegal and unconstitutional, deprecating the dreadful consequences of that measure to the industry and prosperity of the whole country, and recommending their immediate restoration as equally a measure of safety and justice.

His resolutions having been read, Mr. Leigh addressed the meeting at large, reviewing the conduct of Government, exhibiting its unconstitutionality and lawlessness, and depicting its injustice and tyranny, in a strain of lofty and indignant eloquence, of which the meeting showed its sense by frequent and long continued applause.

His resolutions were then unanimously adopted—a circumstance, the importance of the occasion and the numbers in presence, considered, without precedent.

Such is the temper of this city—such will, in a short time, be that of the entire Commonwealth. The wise and the moderate Chapman Johnson, in his address on taking the Chair, viewed the crisis as presenting the issue of Liberty or Despotism.

London Post Office.—The ordinary business of each day is, in letters in the inland office alone, 35,000 letters received, and 40,000 sent (23,475,000 annually,) exclusive of the numbers in the foreign office department and the ship letter office, and altogether independent of the two penny post. The number of newspapers daily varies from 25,000 to 60,000, (on Saturday, 40,000, and on Monday, 5,000,) of which number about 20,000 are put into the office ten minutes before 6 o'clock. After that hour each newspaper is charged one half penny, which yields a revenue of fully £500 a year and of which 240,000 newspapers are annually put into the office from 6 to a quarter before 8 o'clock. The revenue drived from charges for early delivery in London is £4,000, and the sum obtained by the charge of one penny on each letter given to the postmen, who go round with bells to collect the letters, is £3,000 a year, giving 720,000 or nearly 2,000 daily. The revenue of London is £6000 a week, above £300,000 a year; and yet of all this vast annual revenue there has only been lost by defaulters £200, in twenty five years.—The franks amount in a morning to 4,000 or 5,000, or more. Newspapers can only be franked for foreign parts to the first port at which the mail arrives; after this they are charged postage according to their weight, in consequence of which an English daily paper costs in St. Petersburgh £40 sterling per annum.—Penny Magazine.

We are requested to state, that the freight bill for the transportation of troops from Fort Monroe to Savannah, in the Jane and Herald, was paid to the owners in Baltimore, by a check on the Union Bank of Maryland.

We learn from "A Merchant," and we are also requested to state, that the amount of freight received for transporting troops from Boston to Fort Monroe, was paid by a check on the Branch of the Virginia Bank at Norfolk, which receives there the Government Deposits—that the very Virginia notes thus received of the Government were bro't to Baltimore, and by the Merchant to whom the vessel was consigned, were tendered to the Union Bank of Maryland, in part payment of a Bond due the Government, which were refused by the said Bank, and the Merchant had to pay the Bond in notes of the Banks in Baltimore.—Balt. Pat.

From the New York American.

Bank of the United States.—The correspondence published to day, which we have taken from a copy of the Report of the Directors of the Bank of the United States heretofore published, and to which it constitutes an Appendix, developes more clearly than any thing before, the indirections, concealments and acts of insidious hostility to which the Bank has been exposed from one of its partners—the Government of the United States. Here we see that for weeks, drafts for sums exceeding two millions of dollars, were hanging over the United States Bank, without any notice from the Treasury of the existence of such drafts; although meantime lists were daily—and corrected and fuller ones weekly—furnished to the Bank by the Treasury, specifying drafts for even the smallest sums, and purporting, or at least understood, to include all of any sort drawn on the Bank, and yet these contingent drafts for more than two millions, payable on demand, and lent to pet Banks for their convenience, and to be presented at their discretion, were never alluded to in these lists or otherwise, until one of them was presented for payment.

OMNIBUSES IN ENGLAND.—Forty Stages and Omnibuses run within every hour between Padington and the Bank; and it is calculated that more persons travel by stages on that road every day, than fifty years ago traveled on all the roads in the kingdom!

CONGRESS.

Friday, December 26.—In the House of Representatives, Mr. Mercer, from the Committee on Roads and Canaes, to which was referred the memorial of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, reported, in part, a bill, authorizing an additional subscription to the Stock of the said Company; which bill was twice read and committed.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Two of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States, Mr. Justice Thompson and Mr. Justice McLean, have already arrived in this city, for the purpose of attending the annual session of that court.—Nat. Intel.

J. APPLETON'S LATE IMPROVED

WASHING MACHINE.

THIS valuable improvement has been preferred by all who have used it to any other machine of the kind yet offered to the public.—It is expeditious, without injuring the clothes washed, as will be seen in the certificates below. All those who wish to save labor in washing, will please to call and see the operation, at the Masinon House, corner of Wood and Fifth streets. Machines, and the right of counties for sale—Machines 12 dollars—and at any persons service for trial. Dec. 31, 1833.

We have had in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine, and do not hesitate to say that it is preferable to any that we have seen or used. A woman can wash as much in one day, with the machine, as she could in three by the hand, and only half the soap is necessary. We think it clears the clothes better than hand washing, without injury to them. We have also used Barnes' Patent Steam Washing Machine, called Peg Machine, but give Appleton's the preference. It washes cleaner and faster; therefore we recommend Appleton's Machine to the public in general.

Lucy Higginbotham, | Elizabeth McKim.
Robert Poore,

We have in use Appleton's Patent Washing Machine. It is so simple in its construction that it may be used by any unskilful hand, and we do recommend it as a great saving of time and labor.

Edmund Henderson, | M. Gretter,
A. Robinson, | James Fisher,
George Greenhow, | Isaac White.

Hamilton County Agricultural Society.

It is hereby certified, that the Judges, appointed by the Hamilton County Agricultural Society, for the exhibition, held at Mill Creek, on the second of October, 1833, having awarded that Appleton's Washing Machine, submitted to the Society, on trial, appeared to their satisfaction to be of utility as a labor saving machine in domestic economy—they unhesitatingly recommend it to their fellow citizens—in testimony whereof, this Certificate is given. FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in, and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Frankiin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land	containing	330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
1	do	do	6

other lots, containing about

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county—and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others—a soil rich and productive—the neighborhood abounding in coal—well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes giving temporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradually increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
